摘要

China's 1,800 hat and cap suppliers export more than US$1.5 billion worth of products annually. Makers produce a wide range of designs including sports and fashion caps, as well as winter headwear.

Currently, the industry is facing rough challenges such as rising labor, electricity and material costs, and a strong yuan. If the situation does not improve, as much as 30 percent of the supplier base could fold or switch focus to the domestic market.

Despite this, many suppliers are optimistic about future export growth, hoping to increase sales by at about 10 to 20 percent in coming months.

With this comprehensive report you can: Gauge manufacturers' capability using in-depth and verified production statistics Source products that match your price point Preview upcoming products Save time and money by pre-qualifying makers before your next sourcing trip Understand how changes in the industry may affect your sourcing decisions
